SYSTEM OF CROP INTENSIFICATION

System of Crop Intensification is a set of modified agronomic practices which is primarily adopted in the techniques of System of Rice intensification (SRI), System of Wheat Intensification (SWI) and vegetable cultivation.

System of Rice Intensification (SRI)

System of Rice Intensification is a methodology in which the management of soil, water, plant and nutrients is altered for greater root growth and nurturing microbial diversity resulting in healthier soil and plant conditions. In SRI, practices like seed rate, method of raising of seedlings in the nursery, transplantation, control of water in the main field, weeding/hoeing are modified to ensure higher ratio of tillers to mother seedling, increased number of effective tillers/hill, enhanced panicle length and bolder grains, or enhanced yield of paddy.

During this quarter, a total of 87567 SHG households undertook SRI on 9772 acres of land in 9 project districts.

Khagaria district. This methodology is adopted to reduce the cost of cultivation to almost zero by using organic inputs.

SCI in vegetable using sack farming: Sack farming was another new concept piloted in Khagaria district which caters to the needs of landless farmers. Through this methodology, a landless farmer can grow vegetables in sack. This would not only enhance their nutrition intake but the excess produce can also be sold in the market. A total of 325 SHG households undertook this intervention.
